

KYOTO WINTER SCHOOL 2022

Virtual International Graduate Seminar on Sustainable Development in Asia

Feb. 28 - March 12, 2022

WHAT IS KYOTO WINTER SCHOOL?

Despite the significant economic development seen in East and Southeast Asian countries in recent years, less attention has been placed on ecological health, social equity, empowerment, and cultural creativity, which lead to compromised inclusivity and long-term sustainability of the region. The Kyoto Winter School 2022, hosted by the Graduate School of Economics at Kyoto University, aims to address these issues by promoting productive, collaborative, critical, and creative dialogues between students and faculty from Kyoto University and its key partner universities in ASEAN countries. Please join us in a series of exciting online lectures, cultural exchange programs, and a graduate student workshop on sustainable development in Asia and the world.

SPECIAL GUESTS

Grace Wong

Researcher
Stockholm University

Development and climate change policies in SE Asian forest frontiers: Interests, ideas and the promises of equity.

Dasom Lee

Asst. Professor
University of Twente

A comparative sociotechnical design perspective on responsible innovation: digitized energy and sustainable transitions

Jose Camacho

Chancellor
University of the Philippines Los Baños

Revisiting Sustainable Development in a Post-Pandemic World

Kitti Prasirtsuk

Professor
Thammasat University

The Opportunity and Challenge from BRI for Thailand/ASEAN

Thorn Pitidol

Asst. Professor
Thammasat University

Thailand's economic inequality: characteristics and causes

Nisit Panthamit

Assoc. Professor
Chiang Mai University

Money and payment in borderland: Response of Mekong countries (CLMVT) to China's Belt and Road Initiative

Witsanu Attavanich

Assoc. Professor
Kasetsart University

Impact of climate change and agriculture: Methodologies & applications

Nurul Indarti

Professor
Universitas Gadjah Mada

The Role of Business School in addressing sustainability challenges

Rimawan Pradiptyo

Senior Lecturer
Universitas Gadjah Mada

His SONJO initiative organizes responses to COVID-19

Mai Kobayashi

Asst. Professor
Kyoto University

Sustainable rural development in a hyper aging society -- lessons from Japan

Lecture series (weekdays, 16:00-18:00 JST)
Cultural exchange (March 5)
Graduate Student Workshop (March 12)
Scan the QR code for more details

Register here
or e-mail us at:

iao.econ@mail2.adm.kyoto-u.ac.jp

