

To all undergraduate and graduate students at Kyoto University

2nd Kyoto University Intercultural Co-Learning Seminar 2024

Special Lecture & Discussion Session

with students from Chinese universities

Call for Applications

Date: Nov.28 (Thu) 2024, 14:30–17:45pm [Lecture/Discussion]
18:00–19:30pm [Dinner Party]

@ ILAS Building, Multipurpose Room in the basement/Cafeteria “Camphor”

 The special lecture will be in Chinese only, but the discussion session will be in English and Japanese.

This 2nd Intercultural Co-Learning Seminar will bring together students from Kyoto University and those from Chinese universities sent by a Japan-China business exchange organization. As a side event for Kyoto Summer Program (KSP) 2024, the seminar provides an opportunity for the two groups of students to learn together, gain diverse perspectives, and forge new friendships. All Kyoto University students are welcome to join, regardless of their past participation in the KSP.

Schedule :

- ① 14:30 ~15:15 Special Lecture (in Chinese)
- ② 15:30 ~17:45 Joint Discussion Session / Presentation (in English and Japanese)

During the joint discussion, Chinese and Japanese students will discuss a range of topics common to the two countries. Specific topics will be announced later to the registered participants.

- ③ 18:00 ~19:30 Dinner Party

No charge for Kyoto University students., but participation may be limited if there too many people.

Lecturer: Livou HAN. Associate Professor. Institute for Liberal Arts and Sciences. Kyoto University Education, scientific research and innovation at Japanese universities

Introduction: In the fields of natural sciences, the number of Japanese Nobel laureates has been the second largest after the United States throughout the 21st century. This lecture will explore specific characteristics of education, research and innovation at Japanese universities that have contributed to the success.

Registration :

- ◆ Deadline: Nov.14, (Thu) 2024. 5:00pm
- ◆ Application Form: <https://forms.gle/ZSCaZ9fz858G6TEy8>

Sponsored by Institute for Liberal Arts and Sciences, Kyoto University

