Report on Participation

Phyo Theingi

(a) Academic outcomes

By attending the seminars and workshops listed below, I got international academic experiences. They will help our academic teaching and learning. I apply them to our teaching style and teaching methods to make them more effective. And my student looks more interested in my lecture than before I visited Japan. The experiences of seminars and workshops support the way I teach and conduct research.

(b) Our experiences in Kyoto University

While I visited Kyoto University, I was able to see how the teaching and learning system of the university works and how it maintains the high standard of education system. It looked that there is a strict discipline for all the students and teachers to follow. At the same time, I was very impressed that the students and teachers of this university are warm, kind-hearted and hospitable.

(c) The content of the program

I participated in the following series of workshops held in Kyoto University:

- Kyoto Philosophical Logic (June 19-20)
- An International Workshop on the Cosmos of Dogen (June 22)
- Dialetheism and Related issues in Analytic Asian Philosophy: An international workshop (June 23-24)

(d) The impact of the program on your career plans

This program provides a great impact on our career plans because it gave good opportunities for the studying about Analytic Asian Philosophy and also Japanese Philosopher Dogen and his philosophy. It is so many chances and aid to teach and learn for me. And I want to learn about it more and more. It especially contributes how to do my Ph.D. Dissertation more systematically and how to do my future research program.
